PADUCAH BRANCH

DIVISION 3 – MIDDLE SCHOOL GRADE 6

SUBMISSION TYPE: ESSAY

PROMPT

Throughout history, individuals like Martin Luther King and Mahatma Gandhi have shown that nonviolent resistance can be a powerful tool for creating social change. Nonviolent resistance, also known as civil disobedience, is a strategy that seeks to challenge injustice and inequality without resorting to violence. Write an essay that delves into the effectiveness of nonviolent resistance as a means of creating social change. As you write your essay, think about the following:

- HISTORICAL CONTEXT – What was the historical context of the movements led by people like Dr. King and Gandhi? What injustices were they aiming to address? What challenges did they face?
- PRINCIPLES – What are the core principles of non-violent resistance? How does this create awareness and put pressure on those in power?
- INSPIRATION – How do the principles of nonviolent resistance inspire you to take a stand against inequality and foster lasting change?
